질문에 대해 생각하고, 주어진 표현을 활용해 자유롭게 이야기해 보세요.

1. How important are first impressions outside of work environments?

직장 밖에서 첫인상은 얼마나 중요할까요?

KEYWORDS approachable (친근한) | come across as (~처럼 보이다)

I try to look more approachable by always smiling whenever I talk with someone.
When I first meet someone I sometimes come across as an introvert because I listen more than I speak.

2. What is the first thing you notice about someone when you meet them?

누군가를 처음 만났을 때 가장 먼저 눈에 들어오는 건 뭔가요?

KEYWORDS eye contact (눈 맞춤) | body language (바디 랭귀지)

I first notice if someone makes eye contact while talking. If they don't, maybe they are nervous.
I can tell when my friend is uncomfortable because their body language changes, like when they cross their arms.

3. Can people recover from bad first impressions?

첫인상이 나빴던 걸 회복할 수 있을까요?

KEYWORDS confident (자신감 있는) | arrogant (거만한)

Confident people can seem mean at first because they are sure of themselves and may give direct answers.
If someone acts like they know everything or can do anything, people will call them arrogant.

4. Have you ever disliked someone at first but later became good friends?

처음엔 싫었는데 나중에 친해진 사람이 있나요?

KEYWORDS misjudged (잘못 판단했다) | intimidating (위압적인)

I misjudged my best friend when we first met because they made too many jokes towards me.
My friend looked intimidating at first because of their facial expression, but it completely changed when we started talking.

5. Do people judge others too quickly based on first impressions?

사람들은 첫인상만 보고 남을 너무 빨리 판단할까요?

KEYWORDS stereotype (고정관념) | biased (편향된)

Some people believe in stereotypes too much, like thinking that all Americans are fat or that all Koreans smell like garlic.
Someone who has a bad experience with police officers might be biased when they meet police officers in the future.

6. What is the best way to make a good first impression?

좋은 첫인상을 남기는 가장 좋은 방법은 뭘까요?

KEYWORDS genuine (진심 어린) | humble (겸손한)

I try to be genuine when I first meet someone by showing interest in who the other person is.
My friend got a perfect score on their exam but is humble by not telling everyone around them.

IMPROVEMENT Prepositions

These three come up a lot when you talk about first impressions, how your opinion changed, and why:

1. impression of ~에 대한 인상 impression of + 사람/것	~~My first impression about her was good.~~ My first impression of her was good. + make an impression on (남에게 인상을 남기다): She made a great impression on me.
2. at first 처음엔 (나중에 바뀜) First, = 먼저·첫째로 (순서)	~~First, I thought he was unfriendly.~~ At first, I thought he was unfriendly. + 자주 쓰는 틀: At first, I didn't like it, but now I love it.
3. based on ~을 근거로 이유엔 from ✗	~~I made my first impression from his appearance.~~ My first impression was based on his appearance. + 문장 앞에도 OK: Based on what I saw, he seemed shy.

Try in the DTs My first impression of ___ was ___. At first, I thought ___, but now ___. It was based on ___.

FOLLOW-UP QUESTION

Have you ever acted completely differently from how you usually do?

평소 자신의 성향과 완전히 다르게 행동했던 적이 있나요?

I'm usually the quiet one in my friend group. I prefer listening to others, and I rarely start conversations. But something unexpected happened during my solo trip to Jeju Island. One evening, I came across a small bar for solo drinkers. I hesitated at first, but since I was on vacation, I decided to give it a shot. I planned to have just one drink and leave, but the person next to me started a conversation. Surprisingly, we hit it off right away. Before I knew it, I was chatting with almost everyone at the bar. I even found myself telling funny stories, making jokes, and asking strangers questions. At one point, the bartender laughed and asked, "Are you always this outgoing?" The next morning, I told my best friend what had happened. She couldn't believe it and asked, "Are you sure that was you?" Honestly, I was just as surprised. I still don't know what got into me that night. Maybe it was the alcohol, the atmosphere, the people, or simply my mood. It made me realize that being quiet doesn't mean I'm always shy, just as being outgoing doesn't mean someone is always confident. Maybe we're all a little selective about when and with whom we show different sides of ourselves. Whatever the reason, I enjoyed seeing a different side of myself that night.
